Rock Island Parks and Recreation Etiquette for Youth

Does your son bring up gross topics at the dinner table? Does your daughter engage in burping contests? When you introduce your child to colleagues, does he mumble “hi” and look away? Of course we want our children to exhibit proper etiquette, but sometimes it takes an expert to express its importance and illustrate the many occasions for its usage.

On Thursday, November 19, from 5:00 to 7:00 p.m., Miss Holly will be teaching Etiquette for Youth at the Hauberg Civic Center in Rock Island. Children of all ages will learn various practices including proper body language, introduction protocol, cell phone etiquette, and appropriate table manners. The session will conclude with a mock Thanksgiving gathering where they can practice their new skills (treats included).

To register, call 309 732-7275 or visit epark at www.rigov.org (use Code # 7436), and be sure to include your child’s age.
