

Help your kids master math!

Rock Island Main Library

August 18, 2008

“Break the Math Block” with free workshop for parents and caregivers at Rock Island Public Library

The Rock Island Public Library will offer a free "Break the Block!" math workshop for parents and other caregivers on Wednesday, September 2 from 6:30-7:30 p.m. in the Rock Island Main Library Community Room, 401 19th Street.

Led by Elizabeth Russell, a math enrichment tutor at Jordan Catholic School, the workshop will focus on easy activities, tips and methods of helping children understand math and math concepts. The workshop will be hands-on, fast-moving and fun. The Rock Island Public Library will also display some of the special math resources it offers to help improve math skills at home.

The workshop is free and open to the public. To sign up, call the Rock Island Library children's room at 309-732-7360. To find out about other library programs that offer more for your life, visit the library's website at www.ripl.lib.il.us or www.rockislandlibrary.org , and sign up for the free “RI Library Lines” e-mail newsletter at www.rigov.org. There’s always something going on in the Children’s Room of the Rock Island Library!